HARDING PLANS TO STIMULATE
U. S. INDUSTRY

American Investment Capital Should Be Kept at Home
BANKERS NOTIFIED
Effect Will Be To Speed Up Movement Of Raw Materials.

Washington, May 24.—President Harding's plan to stimulate American industry by making the proceeds of foreign bond sales in the United States applicable to domestic product shipments abroad today developed these new angles:
1.—American bankers will be given an explicit statement of the administration's attitude that American investment capital should be kept at home and that money realized on foreign bond issues must not be diverted to purchases of goods in other countries.
2.—The administration is prepared to go to congress and ask for new regulatory powers over financial institutions in the event there is failure in any quarter to give the government the staunchest support in the new policy.
3.—The treasury and state departments are engaged in consideration of tentative plans of American financiers calling for the forthcoming flotation of allied bond issues, which may amount into the millions, and may tap American capital in those aggregate sums.
4.—The rehabilitation of Germany industrially and financially, through allied offerings of German reparations bonds, possibly as security for other allied national and municipal bonds, is contemplated.
5.—No objection has been registered officially to offerings of German reparations bonds in the United States. But it is understood that such offerings could only be possible with any degree of success after they have been guaranteed beyond all question, by the allied power floating them and chiefly benefiting from their disposition.
President Harding and his advisers, it is understood are to pursue the most vigorous measures in restricting the use of American capital to finance purely American products from domestic factories and farms.
The effect in the near future will be to speed up the movement of raw materials, chiefly cotton, into Germany and immediate contiguous countries. The steps now definitely outlined are based partly upon a desire to see Germany recuperate to assure payment of war indemnity to the allies.
The administration's concern over Germany is strictly economic. Officials in control of fiscal affairs now realize that Germany's recovery if delayed, may retard a reasonable adjustment of the allied war debts due the United States.
Plans now perfected officials agree, will facilitate the payment to the United States of the allied war loans due to the United States amounting to more than $10,000,000,000.

PRESIDENT ENROUTE TO CAPITOL AFTER
VISIT TO NEW YORK

Strenuous Trip To Metropolis Comes To An End.

New York, May 24.—President Harding is on his way back to Washington today after his strenuous visit to New York. The presidential yacht Mayflower, with Mr. Harding and his party on board, weighed anchor at 1 o'clock this morning and slipped down the bay from her berth at Ninety Sixth street. The Mayflower was escorted as far as the narrows by police boat, John F. Hylan. The president had made two important speeches, reviewed the twenty third regiment of New York state troops and found time for a little sightseeing in between. More than 2,000 persons greeted the president at a reception before the New York Commercial dinner last night. The weather was raw and windy as the Mayflower passed out to sea on her return trip to the national capital.

DISARMAMENT BY EXAMPLE URGES
BRYAN IN SPEECH

Columbus, May 24.—"I believe that we should stand for disarmament by agreement, if possible, and by example if necessary," declared William J. Bryan, addressing members of the Jefferson Club here.
"By this I do not mean that we should scuttle every ship we have right now," continued Bryan. "What I mean is that we should start with a ten percent reduction and call attention of the world to the fact that we were doing so in the interests of society. Then, if the governments of the world will not follow our lead, the peoples of the world will overthrow their governments and follow us in disarmament."

AVIATRIX FLIES ACROSS ANDES

Mile. Adrienne Bolland, famous French aviatrix, photographed on her arrival in Chile from Mendoza, Argentina, after a four-hour flight across the Andes Mountains. Mile. Bolland is the first woman to perform this wonderful feat. She used a 1914 model 80 horsepower plane and flew at an average height of 4,500 metres. Mile. Bolland also has the distinction of having been the first woman to fly the English Channel.

Increased Pay For Navy
Meets Senate Opposition

Additional Appropriation Carried In Pending Navy Supply Bill Intended To Take Care Of Proposed Boost In Personnel.

Washington, May 24.—The senate battled today over the proposed increase of navy pay from $133,202.263 adopted by the house to $154,889,285 recommended by the senate naval affairs committee.
The increased appropriation carried in the pending navy supply bill is intended to take care of a proposed boost in navy personnel from 100,000 as agreed to by the house, to 120,000 as advocated by Republican leaders of the senate.
Senators Borah of Idaho and Leno of California, and La Follette of Wisconsin, Republicans, joined with Democratic senators in attacking the suggested increase, which they criticised as unnecessary extravagance.
Although still daunted by the sudden collapse of opposition to the Borah proposals for a disarmament conference between the United States, Great Britain and Japan and by the swift defeat of the Alameda Cal. naval supply base project, Republican members of the senate naval affairs committee who include Senators Lodge of Massachusetts and Penrose of Pennsylvania, professed confidence in their ability to pass the committee's increased personal amendment.
It was agreed that no effort should be made to force reconsideration of the vote by which the Alameda project was rejected, and that it should be dropped in an effort to save the rest of the bill from the determined opposition of Borah and others of a formidable group of Republican senators, who, by entering into a coalition with the Democratic side, have it was admitted, placed the Republican majority.

SEE BITTER FIGHT IN LABOR MEETING

Cleveland, May 24.—A bitter fight is expected today when the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers considers the reinstatement of 2,400 engineers who joined the "outlaw" strike last summer, which seriously hampered rail transportation.
Grand Chief Warren S. Stone and other officers of organization have expressed their opposition to the proposal but there are many delegates who are prepared to make the fight on the floor.
The question of a renewal of the working agreement with the brotherhood of locomotive firemen and engineers will also be considered today.

PASSION PLAY WILL

Troy, May 24.—The famous Passion Play will be repeated again in the summer of 1922 at Oberammergau, Germany, according to a letter received by Mrs. W. L. Brannon of Crooksville, Ohio, from Anton and Mathilde Lang, Mr. Lang being the character who portrays the life of Christ in the world-known play.
Mrs. Brannon who received the letter, became personally acquainted with the Langs, while attending the Passion Play in the year 1900.
The regular time for the presentation of the play was in the year 1920, but owing to the conditions occasioned by the war it was impossible to take care of the people who have attended the play yearly, and it was postponed until the summer of 1922.

LEGISLATURE OF
STATE, SUPREME
DECLARES PRICE

Sole Judge Of Whether Emergency Exists Is Opinion.
ANSWER FILED
Brief Serves As Defense
Against Two Suits,
Pending.

Columbus, O., May 24.—That the state legislature is the sole judge, and that the judgment of the legislators is conclusive, as to whether an emergency exists and whether they are justified in attaching an emergency clause to a legislative measure, is the claim made by Attorney General Price in his reply, just filed with the state supreme court, to the charges contained in the suit recently filed by State Senator J. F. Burke, Elyria, Republican, attacking the constitutionality of the emergency act attached to the Dunn act, which provides for reorganization of state departments. In filing his reply, the attorney general acted as counsel defending the recent action of Secretary of State Smith who refused the request of Senator Burke that Secretary Smith officially designate the form of petition blanks proposed to be used in an effort to subject the Dunn act to a referendum at the November election.
The attorney general's brief also serves as a defense against the two suits subsequently filed by W. W. Durbin, Kenton, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee attacking the constitutionality of the Dunn act and seeking to subject it to a referendum. Durbin designates Secretary of State Smith and Attorney General Price as defendants by seeking to compel the attorney general to approve a synopsis of the Dunn act and the Secretary of State to designate the form of petition blanks.
Attorney General Price said that passage of the Dunn act "was a matter of sound political economy" and was in "reference to present and future economic conditions." He said the constitution exempts it from a referendum.

COMMISSIONERS
HELD GUILTY

Columbus, May 24.—The state supreme court today affirmed the judgment of the Greene county appellate court which found Greene county commissioners guilty of contempt in proceeding with the Beaver Creek ditch improvement in a manner different from that authorized by the court.
Former Prosecuting Attorney H. D. Smith said Tuesday that it will now be necessary for the commissioners to go ahead with the work as authorized by the court several years ago. The case dates back over a period of years.

Dying Men Clubbed While In German Prisons Charged

Testimony Of Brutality Practiced By German In Charge
Of Camp Given In Trial Of War Culprits—200
Allowed To Die In One Locality.

Leipzig, May 24.—Testimony that 200 British war prisoners were allowed to die in one German prison camp within a month; that dying men were clubbed and that the faces of sick men were eaten by vermin until they were unrecognizable will be given at war criminal trials in the supreme court here, according to a statement made today by Chief Inspector Collins, of Scotland Yard, London, who is the chief guardian of the British witnesses.
"The case of former Sergeant Karl Heynen, former commandant of a Westphalian prison camp is just an opener," said Inspector Collins. It does not compare with the case of Captain Mueller who will come later.
"It was in the Mueller camp according to the British police inspector, that the dying men were clubbed and that other brutalities were inflicted. In the contingent of witnesses under inspection Collins are former soldiers: who will testify about conditions in three prison camps, but none who will give evidence as to alleged submarine atrocities.
Nine children were called to testify to the "gentleness" of Heynen who was the first of the German war culprits to be placed on trial. Heynen testified for about two hours in his own defense. He said that when he was put in charge of the prison camp at Muensteins, his only instructions were to make the prisoners work. He was told to use his own methods. Heynen could not speak English and none of the English prisoners could speak German and the camp was without an interpreter.
Heynen admitted blacking the eyes of prisoners, but denied threatening prisoners with a revolver when they pleaded illness and refused to go to work in the coal mines.
He said he had never had a revolver in his hands in his life, although he had been wounded fighting at the front.
There were some lively scenes in court when 16 English witnesses, who were present to testify against Heynen, saw the accused man enter court. It was the first time the ex-soldiers had seen their tormentor since 1915.
"Here comes Heinz," called one Englishman and all the others craned their necks.
"Doesn't he look sweet," exclaimed one ex-soldier. "He has not changed much except that he has got much thinner."
"Look, Heinz is smiling for the first time," explained one of the witnesses. "I never saw him smile before."
A correspondent asked the Englishman why he called the defendant Heinz when his name is Heynen.
"Because Heinz sounds more German than Heynen," explained one of the former prisoners.
Some of the witnesses were the British uniform. The International News Service correspondent asked J. Parry, one of the chief witnesses against Heynen to give some details of Heynen's ill treatment.
"The worst I can think about is the case of my friend Cross. Cross reported sick one morning with a bad leg which had been hurt in the coal mines," said the soldier. "Heinz asked to see the leg when Cross rolled up his breeches. Heinz kicked the sore place. Heinz exclaimed: 'You don't need a doctor, you need a bath.' Then Cross was put into a shower and for more than an hour hot and cold water was poured upon him alternately. Cross screamed like a crazy man. He came out insane and had to be sent away the next day. He died right afterward. I will never forget those screams; I can still hear them."
Predictions were made that Heynen would be found guilty and sentenced to at least two years. Even German court officials said it would be necessary to placate British public opinion after the publication of the testimony brought out here. British attorneys who came all the way from London were disappointed because they were not allowed to collaborate in the prosecution.
There are seven judges sitting on the bench. Some of them are openly accused by German spectators of partiality towards the British and one judge openly complimented the English witnesses upon their "precise and clear answers to questions."

CROWN FORCES CHARGED WITH IRISH MURDERS

Sensational Statement Made Against Troops in Ireland.

London, May 24.—The sensational allegation that members of the crown forces in Ireland have been guilty of terrorism, murder and arson was contained in disclosures by General Crozier, former commander of the black and tan police, which were printed by the Daily News today.
General Crozier, who resigned because black and tan policemen, whom he had suspended for looting, were reinstated over his head, charged that members of the crown forces disguised themselves as republicans and robbed a post office in Kilkenny. General Crozier made the further sensational declaration that a police cadet had confessed to him that he was the murderer of the Rev. Father Griffith and had buried the body.
General Crozier said he could throw light upon the "massacre" at Croke Park. He demands an immediate public investigation of activities of crown forces in Ireland.

GERMANS UNDER BRITISH CHIEFS
REPULSE ATTACK

Guns Captured From Poles
During Fighting In Upper Silesia.

COMMUNISTS ACTIVE
Reports Of Polish Atrocities
Filter In From Scene Of Trouble.

Berlin, May 24.—Heavy losses have been inflicted on the Polish insurgents, by German volunteers in fighting near Anaberg, in Upper Silesia, according to news from Krappitz today. The Poles counter attacked but were repulsed.
The German volunteers who were led by British and German army officers in the Anaberg sector are reported to have stopped their advance, taking up positions on the lines of Rosenberg, Anaberg and Laschnitz. The German volunteers hold positions all along the right bank of the Oder river while their officers await further orders.
Five field guns and six machine guns were captured from the Poles by the Bavarian free corps when Hill No. 160, near Anaberg was carried in a storm attack.
Bavarians Aroused.
Aroused by excesses in the Namslau district of lower Silesia, Bavarian troops attacked the town hall of Namslau, seizing machine guns and rifles. They threatened to expel the local socialist leaders.
Communists in upper Silesia are fighting against the German volunteers and are attempting to undermine the morale of the Germans, it was declared in advices from Kattowitz. Fifty communists from Berlin were captured by the German volunteers in the fighting.
A British army officer, attached to the inter-allied commission in Upper Silesia, was quoted as an eye witness of Polish atrocities. According to this British officer the Italian and British military authorities in Upper Silesia refused to obey the French command that the German free corps be disbanded. The German attack in the region of Anaberg was said to have been made without any previous plan.
Officers of the German volunteers said it was caused by Polish atrocities which stirred up the fighting spirit of the volunteers. Some of the Germans had no weapons but knives and hand grenades when the advance begun.

URGE GOVERNOR TO VETO BILL TO LIMIT
WEIGHT OF TRUCKS

Delegations Call On Davis
To Protest Measure By Senator Burke

Columbus, O. May 24.—Urging him to veto the bill by Senator Burke, Elyria, limiting the weight of auto trucks and contents on state roads, to ten tons, delegations of truck men from Cleveland, Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Toledo and other cities expect to visit Governor Davis at the state house here late this afternoon.
Charges are made that the bill, if it becomes effective as law, will reduce the load on so-called five ton trucks to four tons, and that the measure as passed as a substitute for the original bill presented and that no public hearings were granted opponents to the substitute bill.
Claiming that one half of the nation's transportation was handled on auto trucks last year, E. J. Shover, manager of the Ohio Automotive Association, declared that the proposed law would seriously affect the business in Ohio.

LOCAL MAN WINS PROMOTION TO NEW HIGHWAY OFFICE

The appointment of George F. Schlesinger of Xenia, as assistant chief engineer of the Bureau of Construction of the Ohio State Highway department became known here Monday. The appointment is in the nature of a promotion for Mr. Schlesinger who has been connected with the department as division engineer since April, 1919, and at the present time has charge of the counties of Montgomery, Preble, Warren, Butler, Hamilton, Clermont, Brown and Adams.

The office of Mr. Schlesinger will fill, June 1, is a new one, and as explained by him, Monday, is in line with Highway Commissioner Leon C. He later became assistant professor of civil engineering at the Ohio State University, and just before entering the Ohio State Highway Department, in 1919, was railroad engineer at the government warehouse at Columbus. He has been located at Xenia for the past few months.

HENRY CLEWS

Weekly Financial Review

Acceptance of the ultimatum of the Allies fulfills the predictions of the past month and warrants the optimism of dealers in foreign exchange who have held their bills for higher figures. There are still many serious financial problems to be solved in connection with the whole matter, as the publication of the details of terms of payment clearly shows. Nevertheless the technical acceptance of the reparations plan at least opens the way to practical consideration of the coming financing and of the share which we ourselves are likely to take therein. As soon as the market has had time to digest the terms it should show the beneficial effect of the news.

Better Railroad Prospects

The better earning situation of the railroads as reported during the past week again brings the rails forward in the investment market and transactions in these issues have assumed a much greater activity than has been true for some time past, notwithstanding temporary setbacks of values. New testimony of railroad leaders before the Interstate Commerce Committee has pointed to discontinuance of excessive Government competition through low freight rates on ships, free tolls on the Panama Canal and other forms of subsidy as the most feasible way of relieving the dangerous position in which roads now find themselves. Meantime, the economies already made are beginning to bear fruit and as more and more railroad reports are made public it seems plain that many of the lines are getting back to a position in which they are able to cover their expenses out of current earnings. It is announced that the Railroad Board will render its decision on the wage dispute on the 15th. of next month. That is some distance off, but it is not doubted that the roads will be accorded the right to reduce wages and this continues to be the incentive for picking up railroad shares.

Industrial Developments

Further decline in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation by about 440,000 tons for the month of April brings the orders now on hand down to the lowest level they have reached for a long time, although the volume still remaining on the books is some 5,500,000 tons. The unsatisfactory feature of the steel business, does not lie in the volume on hand but in the fact that demand is still evidently falling off, recent changes not having sufficed to revive it. Conditions in the steel industry, however are not paralleled in some other lines, there being a marked growth in textile activity and steady extension of demand in sundry other branches of trade. The employment reports of the Bureau of Labor Statistics show a technical reduction during April, but they do not take account of events since that time nor are their figures representative of the entire situation. A feature of importance is the prospect of a large wheat yield this year. This means much to the whole world in the matter of lower food costs, besides giving the railroads good hauls.

Readjustment of Money Rates

Additional reductions of money rates to 6 1-2 per cent for ninety-day paper have brought still more Federal Reserve banks into line with those which had already inaugurated a similar cut during the preceding week. The entire system will shortly be upon a maximum rate basis of 6 1-2 per cent. Reserve bank operations reflect the results of further liquidation more and more the reduction of bill holdings for the past week being $48,000,000 while accumulation of gold continues. According to the statement published on May 13 the amount of discounted bills held by the system was $2,112,100,000, while total gold reserves now amount to $2,363,550,000 (a gain of $425,000,000 over a year ago.) The reserve percentage is 55.9 per cent. The extraordinary deflationary movement which has been going on for the last six months has been largely responsible for the bad market conditions which prevailed during that time. As a market, factor therefore, the ability to obtain money on fair terms to carry on legitimate business cannot be overestimated and eventually must have favorable influence on investment values. The interior banks at the Southern and Western centers will however, have all they can do to sustain their operations during the summer season and little can be expected from them in the way of transfers of investment funds to centers.

Market Review and Outlook

Market activity has continued on a substantially high level during the past week, although the purchasing movement has not been so well sustained as it was during the preceding week and reactions have occurred in various issues. The outstanding feature of the week's transactions has probably been the relatively greater strength of the rails and the loss of ground by the industrials. No very good reason for this state of affairs can be assigned other than the delay of the readjustment process. The truth is, of course, that the market is regulated by supply and demand and the former in the case of the rails, is small owing to the fact that no new railroad stocks have been manufactured for a great many years. Buy big in great volume therefore is not required to give them a uplift. There is no new reason for the selling of the steel stocks except that trade in the steel and iron branch is still woefully slack and does not show any particular signs of improvement for the immediate future.

A DEATH-BLOW TO ALASKA?

There is now before Congress a measure known as the Lane-Curry bill, or the Alaskan Development Board measure, that has aroused the most intense fear and antagonism in Alaska. The men of Alaska regard it as a death-blow aimed at the territory. They maintain that it has but one real purpose; to copper-rivet bureaucratic control on the country under one great super-bureau and to retain for another seven years all the bureaucratic authority under which Alaska has groaned since 1906.

It means, says Alaska, the death of home rule for that territory. Its end, say the men of Seward and Sitka, will be the abandonment by all white men of that country to the Indian, the bear and the bureaucrats.

Alaska charges that she is without anything more than a shadow of self-government; that her Legislature is without authority or dignity.

That the United States has foisted upon her thirty separate Governments; bureaus all governing simultaneously, all jealous, all struggling to extend and increase their own powers and agreeing only upon the maintenance of bureaucratic authority.

Alaska charges that these bureaus ignore and disregard the rights of private citizens in their grindings and clashing. That of these bureaucrats the worst belong to the Department of the Interior with those of Departments of Agriculture and Commerce close behind. That these agencies have driven 60 per cent of the white population out of the country, that but 20,000 whites remain, and that these must go if the Lane-Curry bill is passed.

Bitterest of all is the general indictment of the Roosevelt acts of 1906 that withdrew the country from development and started the evil days of Federal bureaus.

Alaska charges that the Alaskan Railway project has been a sinkhole into which millions of American dollars have been poured by a wasteful engineering commission; that the commission is a soft berth for political favorites and younger sons, and that all Alaska is overrun with "carpet-baggers."

The railway authorized in 1914 to cost $35,000,000 and to be finished in 1917 is not yet finished, though seven years have gone and $48,000,000 has been spent. Alaskans say that the road will cost at least $75,000,000, and possibly $150,000,000. They say that its commission has fought Alaskans, wasted funds and that the job has been strung out to hold jobholders in their places.

They charge that when the road is finished its 471 miles will start at the foot of a glacial moraine and end in a played-out mining camp. Fairbanks, its terminal, once had 7,000 people; it now has less than 1,000.

President Harding has intimated that he might go to Alaska this summer. It will be an excellent move. Certainly, some means of giving the real Alaskans a hearing should be devised before any action that will mortgage Alaska's future is taken. The Lane-Curry bill should wait.

THE CANADIAN MARKET.

Our best foreign customers are the Canadians. Last year we sold them $900,000,000 worth of goods. This is said to represent one-eighth of the product of our factories.

During the same year the United States imported $500,000,000 worth of goods from Canada. They were largely raw materials needed for our own manufacturers, and the total by a fair standard of comparison, was small. A Canadian business man points out that the average purchase per capita by Canadians of our products was $100, and because our population is so much larger, the average purchase of our people from the Canadians was only $5 per capita.

The $900,000,000 worth of merchandise sold to Canada last year was a good deal more than we sold to all South America together.

The South American trade is valuable and important. So is the Asiatic trade, for that matter—or it may be, hereafter. But the Canadian trade is far more important than either of those. The Canadians are near at hand. They are of our own race, speech and culture. It is easy to do business with them, and easy to get the goods to them. They have the highest consuming and purchasing power per capita of any foreign population, and their country is developing fast.

These facts should be given due weight in all plans for extending American trade abroad. It is to the obvious advantage of this country to cultivate the most pleasant and favorable trade relations with Canada. The trade can be increased. Why go to the ends of the earth, when so good a market lies close at hand?

THE AUSTRIAN RECEIVERSHIP.

Bankrupt Austria is going into the hands of a receiver. It will be the first time that has happened to any great nation.

The receiver will be the League of Nations, acting through its finance committee. If the plan of this committee is approved by the Austrian government and the league, as it is expected to be, Austria will be placed practically in charge of three trustees acting for the league. They are M. R. Gluckstadt, the foremost banker of Denmark; M. J. Avenol, a French financier, and Sir Drummond Fraser, an Englishman. These three men have been investigating conditions in Austria and forming their plan of procedure.

It is recognized that the plight of Austria, if left to herself, is hopeless, burdened as she is with great war debts and deprived of the most productive parts of her territory. To begin with, there will probably be a large foreign loan, guaranteed by all the public and private property in the country. The trustees will have authority to approve or disapprove all national loans, foreign or domestic, and will have control of the Austrian assets furnished as security for loans, and will control the expenditure of loans and credits.

This will be a remarkable degree of authority for any nation to surrender. Austria is expected to do it, however, because there is no other way to save the country from utter ruin. The undertaking represents an appropriate function of the League of Nations, and if the league succeeds in the task it will win prestige accordingly.

Incidentally the situation is a striking commentary on the part played by Austria in the World War. The proud capital, head of a great, historic empire, which precipitated the war so blithely in 1914, has met with such prompt and full retribution as has seldom fallen to any nation in history.

THERE ARE SOME FOLKS WHO ARE BEGINNING TO WONDER HOW MUCH LONGER THAT ORCHESTRA IS HIRED FOR

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

It seems quite natural and very pleasing to see Miss Mary Anderson at her old position in the Xenia National Bank again, looking in restored health and vigor.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Swabb last evening about forty friends of his sister Miss Cora Swabb, assembled for the purpose of giving her a "parcel shower" in honor of her approaching marriage to Rev. Jerrow. She was the recipient of quite a number of nice presents.

Little Bertha Milder is taking her turn with the measles at present and is confined to her home on Chestnut Street, suffering with the malady.

Miss Lizzie Fahey who for several years past has been employed in the millinery department at Jobe Brothers and Company, has resigned her position. Miss Fahey will in the near future be one of the principals in a happy event in which her friends are taking great interest.

Farmers in the vicinity of Xenia are complaining of the inroads being made by worms on the orchards. Small green worms in great number attack the tree and soon strip it of leaves. Apple orchards in a number of cases have been badly damaged.

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

Galileo made the telescope and brought to light unknown stars and planets, the craters of the moon, the rings of Saturn and other things.

Properly used, the telescope is a wonderfully effective instrument. But look through the wrong end and your vision becomes distorted; things get out of focus; objects well within your reach seem miles away.

An important province of this newspaper is to act as your telescope. Use it properly and your vision is enlarged. That means reading the advertisements as well as the other news. Fail to read the advertising and you overlook a great deal that you ought to see and know—the best in values—opportunities for economy, increased comfort, convenience and happiness.

Advertising brings close to your hand the things you want. Tells you where to buy them, what they cost.

You glean much valuable information about merchants their stores their goods, their services—all important points to you as a possible purchaser.

You often add materially to the effectiveness of your purchases by reading the advertisements of this paper.

Advertising identifies goods of unquestioned value. When a store or a manufacturer puts his name on a product and tells you about it, you may rest assured that it is worth while. It does not pay to advertise merchandise that is not sound. The comebacks are too costly.

Sometimes advertising keeps you from making an unwise purchase by pointing out just why one article suits your needs better than another. A step toward real economy. It helps you to live better and dress better and make more of your income in every way. Also real economy.

You may read every line of the news column—but if you overlook the advertising you remain uninformed about the very things that concern you most vitally.

Unquestionably, you narrow our vision. Get a "close-up."

Read the advertisements today and every day. Make it a part of your daily programme to do so. The time and effort so spent will enable you to save more time and effort—money, too—by showing you where, when and how to spend your money most profitably.

PORTRAY CONDITIONS IN CHINA HOSPITAL

The First Baptist Sunday School arranges each month to present some phase of Missionary activity to the scholars and thereby to raise $120 each year for missions.

On last Sunday morning, the Young Women's Class taught by Miss Eva Whitehead presented "Scenes in a Hospital in China," in which the conditions and customs of the natives were incidentally seen and the strenuous, philanthropic and scientific service of the hospital crops was vividly portrayed.

Miss Whitehead was head-nurse; Mrs. O. Dice was the doctor; Miss H. McCarty, Miss Veda Witham, Mrs. L. A. Wagner and daughter, Mrs. J. C. Denham, Miss Weir, Mrs. R. Fuller and Mrs. Weber were each represented as patients a specific ill of that country. Tragedy and comedy tears and laughter were seen in the "House of Suffering." The patient persevering skill of the nurse against the prejudice of the native sufferer was cleverly described.

To this program was added the following numbers: Duet, "The Time of Harvest," Mrs. J. C. Denham and Miss Doris Whittington; Mrs. Oliver Dice gave a reading, "Tag, or Alice in Blunderland" in which Blunderland became Wonderland by the touch of the gospel wand. There was a good attendance and a large offering.

REQUIREMENTS FOR TEACHERS WILL BE STRICTER THIS YEAR

Rules regarding requirements for teaching certificates in Greene County will be more stringently enforced this year than they have during the war, according to the announcement today of the Greene County Board of Examiners.

During the war when teachers were scarce temporary certificates had to be issued without the usual qualifications in order to provide teachers. This year, with many more teachers available, the requirements for a certificate will be raised to their former standard.

The requirement for a regular certificate according to the Board, which is composed of C. A. DeVoe, District Superintendent, as president; Miss Letitia Dillencourt, as vice president and County Superintendent H. C. Aultman, as clerk, is thirty-six weeks normal training, or one year normal training from a recognized school.

Requirements for temporary certificates include: Class A, normal training equivalent to 24 weeks plus success in examination; twenty-four weeks normal training plus at least one year of experience, plus success in examination; one year college work plus success in examination; eighteen weeks' normal training plus five years experience, plus success in examination; eight years' teaching experience plus success in examination; all persons who have less than one year of accredited normal training must pass the regular examination successfully before a temporary certificate can be issued.

No emergency certificates are expected to be given out during this year and temporaries only after the supply of regularly certified teachers has been exhausted. Two and three year certificates may be renewed by passing the examination in principle of teaching.

The requirements are expected to raise the standard of teachers to the pre-war level.

Practical Business Talks

PLUGGING AWAY.

Some of the much touted prima donnas in business are now going to retirement.

The business race is not always to the swiftest nor the most brilliant.

The strain of the readjustment period has been too great for some of the "master minds" whereas many of the more conservative and less spectacular leaders have easily weathered the storm.

We've cheered the great organizers and executives, we've listened to their speeches and applauded without stint. Now let us give a few cheers for the business men who did not lose their heads during the boom, for the men who did not loose their sense, of proportion or their caution. Let us admire, for awhile, the men with foresight who were in shape to weather the storm and who were able to keep plants and factories going at normal production.

A successful executive once remarked concerning one of his branch managers: "Jim is not a brilliant fellow. But he's a pluggier. I know he's on the job every minute. And in the long run I expect he'll be more successful than some of these temperamental fellows who have to be petted and cheered up and humored."

The man who lasts in the business race is the man with poise and good judgment and caution. Others may pass him temporarily by sheer force of genius and enthusiasm, but the tortoise beats the hare in the end.

Young man, your business career lies before you. Be steady. Be faithful. Be persistent. Be cautious. Cultivate a five year vision.

As Herbert Kaufman once said, "The man who hangs on is the man who wins out."

LOOKING FOR IT.

The man who always looks for grief is sure to find the goods he seeks; his search is, peradventure, brief, or it may last for seven weeks. But when he finds his grief he's prone to wish he'd sought for other things, and he puts up a bitter groan, the while the Wise Man smiles and sings. The man who doesn't pay his bills hunts grief, and he will run it down; the course he follows always kills a fellow's standing in the town. And when he runs for county clerk, or tries to follow other plans, his creditors get in their work, and he is with the also rans. The scandal monger's hunting woe, and he is close upon its heels; some ugly tale he whispers low will reach the man with whom it deals. Then there will be a frightful scene of violence, the moon beneath; and Mr. Scandalman will lean against a fence and spit out teeth. If grief's invited to your home, it's sure to come, with its valise, and it will farrow your old dome, and never give you any peace. It's better far to hunt for joy, and ask it to your cheap abode; say kindly things and don't annoy the other jays along the road. Be honest as the day is long and earn the kopecks in your purse; then life will be a grand sweet song, a chorus after every verse.

SENT TO PRISON FOR ALLEGED THEFT OF AUTOMOBILE

Troy, May 24.—Elsworth J. Edwards of Christiansburg, who was arrested in Troy on the charge of stealing the automobile of Mrs. Mary J. Snyder of Troy, failed to secure a suspended sentence as he had hoped for, and was committed to the Ohio State Penitentiary, at Columbus, by Judge E. P. Middleton, of Urbana.

Edwards made a plea that the theft of the car followed a lover's quarrel, but the court made an investigation, and though the prosecuting attorney recommended a suspended sentence, the court held it did not feel free in granting it.

Mrs. Snyder denied that any love existed between her and Edwards, and that his repeated offers of marriage had been rejected by her. On the night of the theft of the machine, Mrs. Snyder had both keys to the building in which the machine was kept in her possession.

Edwards was taken to the Penitentiary Friday by Deputy Sheriff James Todd of Troy.

SPRINGFIELD WILL BECOME CENTER OF C. N. G. GUN UNITS

Springfield, May 24.—With three separate machine gun companies of the 147th infantry of the 37th division, O. N. G. stationed in Springfield, this city will become the center of machine gun activities of the Ohio National Guard it is believed. No other city in the state has more than one company.

Organization of the third company was perfected last week and the men sworn in Saturday night at the Springfield Armory. At present there are 50 men and three officers in the third company, which will be known as Company M., and the officers in charge hope to gain a membership of 65 by the first of July.

Men from the Springfield companies are being picked to go to Camp Perry for the annual rifle practice this summer. They will be sent to camp and given special work on the rifle range and will also participate in match shoots. The men will receive $2 a day and their board while at the camp and the various squads will remain in camp from 10 to 20 days, according to Springfield guard officers.

FOR SOUTH AMERICA: Miss Helen Bernard, Fremont

FOR MALASIA: Miss Lorena Stuckey, Rockford.

FOR CHINA: Miss Tirah Stahl, Springfield, Miss Alice McBee Zanesville; Miss Lucerne S. Hoddinot, Cleveland, and Miss Helen Pierce of Troy.

Missionaries who will go out on the work in foreign lands, will not wear short skirts or flimsy waists, according to a decision of the secretaries conference.

Another action taken at the conference included the increase of the salaries paid to the missionaries in foreign lands to $600 a year. The top price was $400 a year before the raise was granted.

GASOLINE THROWN ON FIRE
Columbus, May 24.—Cleaning gloves with gasoline, Mrs. Alexander Roley spilled some of the liquid on the basement floor of her home. Running under the lighted burner beneath a hot-water tank, the gasoline caught fire. The mother, Mrs. D. C. Loehner, hearing Mrs. Roley's screams, grabbed a pan of gasoline, threw it on the flames, and threw it on the flames. Fireman put out the fire before property was damaged. MASS DAY EXERCISES OF XENIA TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS WELL ATTENDED EARLY TUESDAY

With the largest opening crowd that ever attended the exercises, Mass Day of the Xenia Township Schools began in the Opera House Tuesday morning.

Friends and relatives of the young people who are graduating this year from the eighth grade to the high school courses, thronged into the city, and the Opera House was practically filled when the exercises started. The arrival of many more during the day, made the crowd one of the largest in the history of the annual Mass Day celebrations of the Xenia township schools.

The program began Tuesday morning at 9:15 o'clock standard time, with prayer by the Rev. Charles P. Proudfit, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church of this city and was followed immediately by singing of the "Star Spangled Banner", by the students of all the township schools.

Two cantatas, "Brownie Band," by the Union schools and "Midsummer's Day," by the East Point, Old Town Run and Lauman Schools, were presented during the morning session. The cantatas were directed by Harry Smith, musical director in Xenia township who introduced the cantatas and gave a synopsis of each.

At noon a basket dinner was spread in the basement of the Reformed Church, where the school exhibit of construction work, home economics and manual training by the grades, was open to the public all day. During the day the exhibits drew much attention and praise, the young students having exhibits that drew the commendation of the most exacting.

Of especial interest in the way of home economics was the table display by the domestic science class of the Collins school. A table was set with cloth, plates and silverware, and with tempting dishes prepared by the students themselves. Others of especial interest were the replica of a school and school grounds by the West Point school, the aprons and dresses by the Old Town Run pupils, cooking exhibits by Wilberforce District No. 12 and the Union Schools primary art work. All fourteen of the schools in Xenia township have with domestic science and manual training, and each was represented in the exhibit, all of the work being of exceptional merit. Everything was represented from handsomely iced cakes, tempting jellies, biscuits and pies to aprons, dresses, umbrella stands and hat racks.

The song, "Thank God I'm an American" by the entire schools opened up the program at the Opera House in the afternoon, and was immediately followed by the presentation of the certificates to the 8th grade graduates by Supt. D. H. Barnes.

There are 28 graduates from the township schools this year. They are Caryl Butt, Mildred Osman, Clark Ellis, Charles Funk, Ruth Mills, Martha Gultice, Edgar Chandler, Marie Davis, Lorene Cooper, Leonard Hamilton, Alma Almon, Paul Collins, John Harvey Collins, Chauncey Bray, Edwin Hanes, Weldon Graham, Mary Elizabeth Bryson, Celeste Hall, Theodore Robinson, Herman Robinson, Freda Lawrence, Mildred Thompson, Pauline Nash, Elizabeth Bales, Gladys McCoy, Edith Beals, Mary Smith, Russell Rolison.

Following the presentation of the certificates, a program continued during the afternoon. The program consisted of a playlet and drill, "Patty Saves the Day," by the Clark's Run, Goes and Oak Grove Schools; the cantata "Crowning the Fairy Queen," by the Old Town, Collins and West Point Schools; the songs, "Vacation Song," and "Only One Banner," by the Wilberforce schools; a "May Pole Drill," by the Hawkins and Hilltop schools and the closing song, "Vacation," by all of the schools.

The Markets

Stocks

The stock market is full of cross currents and day-to-day fluctuations are difficult to forecast. Quiet accumulation of seasonal securities is reported in progress. Despite reaction from the recent upswing, the tightening of call money, the feeling persists that the broad trend should be upward henceforth, especially with the approach of fall. The usual summer dullness may be expected. Market writers reiterate their belief that the worst is over, although as yet they have made little progress beyond that reasonably sound and safe conclusion. One conservative brokerage house "expects now an adjustment to actual earning capacity on a competitive basis."

Grain

The visible supply of wheat has been less than one-third that of a year ago and cash wheat is at a premium for delivery on May contracts. Despite bullish sentiment in some quarters the grain has not yet been seen for a market advance in wheat with reflection of this strength in other grains. Foreign crop prospects are favorable on the whole, and notwithstanding damage in Kansas and Oklahoma, a wheat crop in this country well above the average is seemingly assured. Europe is expected to buy 50,000,000 bushels of wheat a month for three months beginning May 1 from exporting countries but is not apt to stampede for grain until more is known of the probable crop outcome there. Cereal products mills are running part time or have suspended in most instances and business in general does not warrant decided and prolonged activity on the market's constructive side as yet. Grain traders deplore passage of the Tegner bill by the House it is said.

Livestock

Cattle show tendency to appreciate in value after each slump, showing resiliency. Packers refuse to support marked advances in the hog market. Although supply has fallen to seasonal volume, little bullish sentiment on hogs is due until after the June run. Live mutton advanced steadily during the first weeks of May. How well sustained is this advance remains to be seen. Cattle and hog supply at nine leading markets during the first four months of this year showed a decrease of 12 and two per cent respectively from last year, while sheep receipts increased. Backers have succeeded in disposing of their winters accumulation of hides for the most part.

Cotton

Attention is being paid to the weather and its probable effect on cotton—the more so in view of rains and coolness during May unfavorable to the new crop. The British coal strike and the large stocks on hand are the two greatest obstacles to an advance in this market. The Silesian trouble is disturbing. On the other hand, future reports will undoubtedly reveal a material cut in acreage, the extent of which no one can foretell with accuracy. Larger exports later this year are predicted as a consequence of measures now being taken to finance sales abroad. The first government crop report of the season will appear June 2.

Wool

Western wool growers are reluctant to part with their clips at prices offered but small sales are made at 14 to 17c. The recent London and Australian sales give reason for encouragement, the London sales showing a higher range of prices than was anticipated. The domestic wool market is quiet with prices little changed. Manufacturers are slow to cover their requirements. The government will sell at auction 6,000,000 pounds of low grade wool on May 25.

Metals

The steel market is very dull with out promise of immediate improvement. Further reductions in costs are expected. The Steel corporation instituted its new wage scale without difficulty. Scrap iron, which gives a fair index of the market is moving slowly. Pig iron reflects the dearth of business in steel.

Agriculture

Crop reports from foreign countries, especially as regards the wheat crop, are mainly favorable. The area shown to winter wheat in 17 countries is 99,400,000 acres, compared with 103,200,000 acres last year. Ordinarily bumper crops in this country are taken as a sure sign of coming prosperity. They provide abundant food for home use at reasonable prices and leave a surplus for export. This year special pains are necessary to keep export markets open. Credits are necessary to finance the sale of goods for which the buyers can not pay in cash.

The larger the crop yields abroad the less will be the need for American products. However, large these yields, American farmers may still count upon a deficit in European supplies which the American surplus will be called upon to meet, at least in part.

The American agriculture must pass through a considerable period of depression unless present conditions take a decided turn for the better soon is the belief of no less an authority than Dean Davenport of the Illinois College of Agriculture, expressed in a leading farm journal. Dean Davenport expects little from European markets in the next decade and thinks agriculture may have to go into "semi-hibernation" until the "industrial world at home gets sane again." He adds that "if the thing is all over in ten years we shall be lucky; but if it is, we shall need to move faster than we have moved since the armistice." The dean concludes that force which discourage production seem clearly to outweigh those which normally stimulate it.

Weak Eyes Come Back to Health

Tuesday Health Talk No. 37.
G. C. DONOHOO, D. C., Ph. C.

There are two kinds of eye weakness. One is due to general or constitutional causes, and the other to some weakness that is local to the eyes alone. Weak eyes are a common effect of fevers or other ailments which fill the system with poisons.

When eye troubles are due to defective kidney action, or come as an after effect of measles, scarlet fever, etc., the chiropractic spinal adjustments must correct the constitutional as well as the eye condition. Such cases are apt to be more slow in showing results.

But where the trouble is local to the eye as in strabismus, or cross eyes, the results from chiropractic spinal adjustments are directly effective. This is particularly true in children. In adults, of course, the condition is more stubborn, and may resist correction entirely.

CROSS EYES CORRECTED

"Several days previous to seeing the chiropractor, my baby fell off the bed, striking on her head, causing it to swell, producing much pain, and resulting in both eyes being crossed."

"Several days previous to seeing to relieve the child, and I refused at first to try chiropractic, for I knew nothing of it. But the condition of the baby was so distressing I finally consented. It was remarkable what happened. Her eyes are perfectly straight. The baby is not a year old."—Mr. and Mrs. Val Allen, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1261L.

SAYS OSAGE ORANGE MAKES BEST FARM FENCE POSTS NOW

Because of its value for fence posts, osage orange may be used to advantage to fill in vacant places in woodlots, or to grow in separate plantations, according to the department of forestry, Ohio Experimental Station. Osage orange, commonly known as hedgehoghorn, is regarded as a most valuable timber because of its durability. Records show that osage orange posts have stood for 40 years without decay.

Osage orange seed may be secured in the fall by gathering hedge balls, or it may be secured from nursery companies.

Generally, the seedlings after one season's growth may be transplanted to a permanent location.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

KEITH AND VERA GO TO HIS OLD HOME CHAPTER 49

"Would you like to go down and stay with mother's housekeeper for a few days?" Keith asked. "I shall be down there about a week, perhaps longer."

"Oh, I would love it!" I exclaimed enthusiastically. It would be heavenly to be alone with Keith.

"Very well then, get ready and meet me at the station at 10 o'clock," he said.

We were at the breakfast table, and I could hardly finish the meal. Gloria and Irene both begged to go along, but Margaret would not take them out of school.

To my surprise Margaret had made no objection. I rather laid her indifference to her dislike of having Clarence Butler see me when he called. I might have been mistaken, but whatever her reason, I was delighted that she did not object and so, perhaps, make Keith leave me at home.

I met Keith very promptly, in fact I was at the station nearly a half hour ahead of time so fearful was I of missing the train.

"Hello! On time I see," Keith greeted me, then took my bag, and helped me on the train.

"I feel as if we were going on a second wedding trip," I said happily nestling close to him. There was no parlor car on this train and so I tucked my hand in his, and sat closely, not caring who might see and remark.

"We haven't been away much have we?" he answered, giving my fingers a little squeeze. "After I get things down here straightened out a bit we must go off, to the sea shore or mountains for a month."

"Really, Keith! Just we two?"

The frown on his face showed me I had, without meaning it, drawn his attention to my dislike of having Margaret with us.

"Unless Margaret wishes to go," His answer was cold, and he withdrew his hand and, taking a paper from his pocket commenced to read.

I felt as if a wet blanket had been thrown over me. Would I ever learn to keep still when he seemed kind and gentle with me? I could have chatted with him all the way had I not made that unfortunate speech, and as it was he scarcely spoke and seemed not to hear my questions for the two hours and a half we were on the train.

It was not because he was angry. I simply had spoiled the mood he was in and he could not get back where we were when we left town. He did not sulk, he busied himself with his paper, leaving me to amuse myself by staring out the window at the familiar scenery.

"Here we are!" He exclaimed heartily as we drew into the station at Hillsdale. "Now for a jitney for you, and I'll go directly to the factory."

He found a jitney, put me and my bag inside, and said:

"I'll be up about 6:30 for dinner." The old housekeeper seemed delighted to see me. I wondered if she were not lonely in the big house alone, that accounting for her hearty welcome. Naturally our coming to stay with her would make more work.

Part of the house had been closed, but the room I had before occupied was put in order for us. I bathed and changed, and then sat down to the piano to pass the time until Keith should come.

I had laughingly told Mrs. Brown, the housekeeper, that I felt like a bride and she called me to come and look at the table when she had it ready. It was lovely, and I told her so. She had some beautiful flowers for a centerpiece, and had taken out some of mother's fine linen and silver. I ran upstairs and took off the plain black dress I had on, and donned a white one I had put in my bag. I had only finished when Keith came in.

"I felt so bridey, Keith dear, I just had to put on a white dress. You don't mind, do you?"

"I think you look very sweet. I will dress, too. If you are a bride, I must be a bridegroom." So laughing and chatting happily, he dressed.

"Whew!" he drew his breath in with a whistle when he saw the table. "No wonder you felt bridey!" He kissed me as he drew out my chair. I was so happy I wanted to cry.

After dinner I played and sang for him until 9 o'clock, when a new manager he had hired came in to see him about something. Then I went upstairs. And while I waited, I just thanked God for letting me be so happy, and asked Him to please not let anything happen while we were there to spoil our first lovely evening.

I never had quite given up the idea that praying about things helped.

Healthy Mother Merry Children Happy Home

TO maintain a happy home the housewife must keep in good health. Her duties are many and various, and it seems as if every other member of the family depended very much on her.

"Where is my hat?" cries the boy.

"What did you do with my coat?" asks the daughter.

"I can't find any handkerchiefs," yells the husband.

The housewife is usually the advisor and general manager of the family.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps women to maintain a happy home by keeping them in good health.

Bloomington, Ill.—"I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it has done me a wonderful sight of good. I was never very strong and female trouble kept me weak so that I had no interest for my housework. I had such a backache I could not cook a meal or clean up a room without raging with pain. I would rub my back with alcohol and it would ease for a few hours, but after I had taken three bottles of Vegetable Compound my aches began to gradually leave me. Now I am as strong and healthy as any woman and I give my thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my health."—Mrs. J. A. McQUITTY, 610 W. Walnut St., Bloomington, Ill.

Dante, So. Dakota.—"I would have pains and cramps every month until I could hardly stand it and could not do my work at all at that time and often had to go to bed. I went to a physician, but he did not do me much good and said I would have to have an operation. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspaper and thought I would give it a trial. Now I feel lots better and don't have to give up and go to bed, and can do all my work. You may use these facts as a testimonial, and I will answer with pleasure all letters I receive, and you may be sure I will praise your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. ARTHUR J.
